

Humane relations

“Without leaps of dreaming in venturing into fertile fields, we lose the excitement of possibilities turning into realities,” says Nirmala Behera, executive director, group HR, RSB, the transmissions major. Behera, who was chief guest at the Pune-based Sai Balaji Group of Institutions, was addressing the inaugural session of the 2019-20 of the academic year for MBA and PGDM students. After lighting the inaugural lamp, she planted a sapling in the institute. She was also invited to be a member of the institution's governing council as an industry expert. Behera, who won twin awards – Business Woman Excellence and Woman Innovator of the Year – at a Bengaluru function in June, says that, as a professional, she gets inspired with every successful person as each of them has a different set of traits. “Learning to inspire begins with discovering and cultivating the latent talents each of us already possesses,” she explains. Recognised widely for her skills, she has a string of awards for HR in her bag, including the ‘Woman Glory’ Award from Sindhu Tai Sapkal – known as ‘Mother of the Orphans’ – and one from the President of India for her devotion and work with orphans. ♦

