Nirmala Behera is the Executive Director - Group HR at RSB Group of Companies, a leading industrial conglomerate with operations in India, Europe, and Asia. She is a woman leader in the corporate world, and her role involves overseeing the group's human resources function across various businesses.

As a woman leader in a corporate bastion, Nirmala is breaking barriers and shattering stereotypes. She is an inspiration to many women who aspire to make a mark in the corporate world. Her success demonstrates that women can excel in any field if given equal opportunities and support.

It is worth noting that women are still underrepresented in leadership positions in many industries, including corporate ones. Women leaders like Nirmala are paving the way for a more diverse and inclusive corporate culture, where everyone has an equal opportunity to succeed.

#mojo4industry salutes the indomitable spirit of Nirmala Behera!

Over the years, participation and employment of women in the mobility industry has continued to be sluggish. Women continue to represent an underutilised resource in organisations across the board, irrespective of the domain they serve in. Yet the changes we've seen in how organisations have scaled up their focus on building diversity in the workplace is praiseworthy.

In a transforming world order, the role of women hasn't been stronger than it is now. Be it any industry, their role in bringing about a difference across social, technological and economic parameters, has been unparalleled.

At Mobility Outlook, our journey with
